Invitation enclosure guide

The Response Card

This is a fun and spirited Response Card that plays on the traditional function of the card. This bride added a line regarding golfing earlier in the wedding day. Never forget that the response card can gather information for several events surrounding the wedding celebration.

The Reception Card

The Reception Card is only needed if the ceremony and reception are taking place at different locations. In the case that the reception is at the ceremony location a line such as "Celebration to follow" can be used on the invitation itself.

The Hand-Drawn Map Card

Kristy loves to create hand-drawn maps. These cards usually accompany a directions card. A map is a great way to ensure your guests don't get lost while trying to navigate an unfamiliar area. This is an especially great option if the wedding is taking place in a significant historical or cultural area - what a better way to show off your area!

The Information Card

This is the "catch all" card to include information that does not quite make sense on any other card mentioned. This enclosure provides a great place to mention your wedding website and travel agent information (destination weddings).
